PUT YOUR TRUST IN 'BIG' TECHNOLOGY SOLUTIONS

In the 1980s, when the popularity of personal computers began to skyrocket, brothers Scott and John Dolmetsch were able to figure out the new machine's potential and helped friends who needed their PCs programmed. Demand for their services grew and, 25 years ago, the brothers set out to found a company that offers full-service technology solutions to clients in the York area.

With much hard work and determination in getting the business off the ground, the company's growth and success over the years has expanded its client base dramatically. Now a leading IT consulting firm, Business Information Group (BIG) has footprints across the country, throughout Canada and even into Australia. But that does not mean that the Dolmetsch brothers have forgotten their beginnings.

"BIG is committed to continued growth, and our goal is to be the leading IT consulting firm in Central Pennsylvania," said CEO Scott Dolmetsch. "BIG wants to be a firm that has the capability to continue to bring high-paying technology jobs to Central Pennsylvania — we want clients and the community to know our plan is long term."

BIG provides networking and security, software consulting, and wireless services and solutions. It serves a range of industries, including architecture, engineering and construction, government, public safety, health care, education and finance, along with providing wireless technology services to stadiums and venues.

"We want to be top of mind when clients and potential clients have technology challenges and concerns," Dolmetsch said. "Each piece of the technology puzzle is important, but how they work together securely is the key."

Business Information Group's employees have the necessary background and depth of knowledge to solve any technology scenario, as well as the persistence to meet every challenge that arises.

It's the company's core values that keep BIG and its employees grounded and determined to give back to the locale that provided its start. Those values emphasize continuous learning, open communication, honesty, change and excellence. These are key to BIG's mission and to the way the firm serves its clients.

"Honesty is imperative for us and for our clients," Dolmetsch said. "The foundation for any client we work for has to be trust when they put their data and infrastructure in our hands."
